

Explanation for delivery program of the PILODIST gmbh

By W. Günther Fischer

When I founded in 1962 FISCHER Labor und Verfahrenstechnik (later renamed FISCHER technology) nobody could envision the success story this enterprise would take in the future. Numerous successful innovations were made and Technical developments were created, developments which today still set worldwide standards.

I am pleased to be able to address you today from the home of the company
PILODIST gmbh

Under this roof there are a number of former colleagues and companions capable to continue the route in the direction I started. Many years of experience in the offered product line permit the company to apply the highest standards of quality and to meet the individual demands of the customers with a high degree of background knowledge and competence.

A number of new developments as well as enhancements of products are already put to use worldwide. Special new developments in the area of automatic process control, applying the most modern computer technology and control software, guarantee the highest degree of confidence in the future.

Proven and highly trained technicians and engineers assure the highest degree of customer satisfaction in the field of after sale services. Well stocked parts supply storage as well as modern production facilities provide very short delivery schedules. The in-house glassblower shop production in particular guarantees the highest degree of flexibility for all demands in glass technology.

I back this new company with full confidence and optimism and I am pleased to be able to give them my support on a consulting basis.
